

Practical Approaches to Faster and Leaner Python

Galen Seilis¹

In this talk I will give a survey of practical advice on how to tweak Python code to either run faster or use less memory. This talk will not contain a lot of theory but will rather contain practical tips I've learned since picking up Python in 2015. A basic facility with the Python programming language is recommended background, but all are welcome to attend and ask questions afterward.

¹UNBC Computer Science, University of Northern British Columbia, Prince George, B.C., V2N4Z9, Canada (seilis@unbc.ca).